

I would like to see a lot more activity in "localism" in our local markets. I think it's a great initiative, but we need some results.

I don't care if it's local musicians, poetry reading, local op-ed material, what it is, but there should be some type of format, or even some REQUIREMENT, for radio stations to air local material of interest to the community.